

DEAL ONLY WITH TARIFF REVISION

President Will Recommend No Other Legislation in His Special Message.

COMMITTEE NEARLY READY

Proclamation Expected to Fix Date of Extra Session at April 8 or 15.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, March 11.—President Wilson will recommend tariff legislation only in his special message convening the House in special session.
This proclamation is expected within a few days, as ten days' notice is required.

While still at Trenton, and before becoming President, he announced that the special session would be called for not later than April 1. President Wilson intended to postpone the date for convening the House, but there are rumors in congressional circles that the proclamation will fix the date at April 8 or April 15.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee announced to-day that they can be ready with their tariff legislation by March 20.

Underwood wants the speediest action on the tariff revision. In this he is joined by the members of his committee.

The President, according to Representative Glass, of Virginia, who will be chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, says that the President considers a reform in the monetary systems as necessary almost as reform in the tariff laws. Mr. Glass gives no hint of the President's ideas of a new currency plan.

Influential House leaders have told the President recently that they considered as ill-advised any effort by him to force currency legislation at the special session of Congress, and that financial reforms should go over to the regular session. They argue that the attention of the country should be centered on each of these reforms separately, in order that the best results might be obtained.

It is contended that each of these matters of legislation emphasizes the great issues between the parties, and the successful popular solution of each will depend on the political fortunes of the Democrats in the House when they come up for election in 1914.

ANDERSON CASE IS SET FOR TRIAL NEXT TUESDAY

Judge Huxley Grants Bail in Sum of $5,000.—
Expected.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Buckingham C. H., Va., March 11.—
The case against Herbert Anderson, which was called in the Circuit Court here to-day, was set for trial on Tuesday, March 18. Flood, Byrd and Gayle will appear for the defense, and Hubbard, Strode, Moon and Pitts will represent the prosecution.

The accused was in court, as was also the young girl he is alleged to have wronged.

Mr. Flood and Mr. Byrd each took part in making application for bail for Anderson. Judge Huxley granted bail, but raised the amount of the bond to $5,000.

This case has caused unusual interest, and a great legal battle is looked for on Tuesday, when this case is tried.

INTENSE ITCHING AND SMARTING

Breaking Out on Chin and Neck.
Blotches Covered with Crust-like Fish Scales. Hair Came Out.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Entirely in Two Weeks.

Hiram, Ala.—"About one year ago I was attacked with a breaking out on my chin and neck something resembling tetter. The general appearance of the breaking out was blotches of raised red places covered with crust-like fish scales.
It would cause the most intense itching and smarting.
To shave caused bleeding and burning.

"I tried several different kinds of cures which were no benefit in the least. They made matters worse. The itching kept spreading slowly until my scalp was attacked by it. My hair came out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment were recommended to me by a friend.
I purchased one cake of Cuticura Soap and a 50c. box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use them. I washed my face with warm water, using Cuticura Soap and drying with a soft towel, afterwards applying the Cuticura Ointment twice daily, morning and night. In two weeks' time I was cured entirely of this skin trouble, leaving skin softer and clearer than before." (Signed) Frederick D. Woods, Nov. 5, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, dry, thin and falling hair, and wet so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them.
Sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free with 25c. book on the skin and scalp. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

COST OF LIVING COMING DOWN

Cost of Butter, Eggs and Vegetables Has Dropped; Meats Firm.

The accession of President Wilson to power has already taken a kink in the high cost of eating, according to the statements of retailers, who say that many of the most flimsy little items on the grocery bill are displaying a commendable stability as to price, while some things are actually coming down.

Butter, the prize aviator of the bunch, which gazed down on the starving consumer all winter from the unattainable altitude of 45 cents a pound, has recently come down to 35 cents retail for the best, and there it promises to stick, for a while at least.

Eggs are coming down, of course, at this season, but they are even lower than usual. Yard eggs, which means new ones, are retailing for the absurdly low price of 22 cents a dozen, and they have dropped nearly 4 cents in the last two weeks. As for cold storage eggs, no one will look at such suspicious characters under the circumstances. The mysterious storage egg is at this time going in, rather than coming out, however, and his period of high-priced popularity comes when he is much older.

Vegetables are also on the downward trend. For example, tomatoes that were selling for 8 cents apiece no more than a week ago may be had for 5 cents. Lettuce has dropped from 15 cents a head to 10 cents, and many other varieties of greens show a similar tendency to sell reasonably.

Pass the Onions, Please.

An especially striking feature of the vegetable situation is the unwanted abundance of onions. Last year there was a veritable onion famine, the dealers say. The odoriferous bulb was so scarce that an "onion powder" was invented for flavoring purposes, a dash of which would impart the desired tear-starting flavor to a stew at a minimum expense. Some economical cooks even dispensed with this, and simply kept a pet onion on hand, which they waved over any dish that called for the flavor. Now all is changed. Order an onion steak, and you can't find the steak for the onions.

For meats remain firm, both salt and fresh. Chickens and turkeys are not quite as high as they were about Christmas, but they are still on the wing, so to speak. There is no doubt, however, but that the general trend of prices is lower. Take a general average, the dealers say, and you will undoubtedly find that the price of dining has dropped a perceptible percent in the last few months.

There is one staple, however, which has nearly doubled in price in a comparatively short time, and which is neither competition, trust-busters, nor warm weather can affect. That is coffee. Time was when you could buy something called coffee for a dime, and a really good article might be obtained at 25 cents.

Now, good coffee costs 40 cents a pound, and the very least you can buy any for is 25 cents. The reason for this, the dealers state, is irremediable, and beyond the scope of this article.
The price of Brazil has practically cornered the coffee business, and is taking measures to make the corner still tighter. If a Brazilian wishes to plant any new land in coffee he is compelled to pay a heavy fine of so much as "hectare" to the government. And so they have streets paved with marble in Rio de Janeiro, and the coffee of the lynch crowd grows paler day by day.

MAN AND WOMAN JOINTLY INDICTED

Grand Jury Acts Against A. D.
Worth and Mrs. Bossers-man.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Staunton, Va., March 11.—The grand jury in the Corporation Court to-day indicted A. D. Worth, for maliciously maiming Luther B. Bossersman, also Worth and Mrs. Bossersman jointly for the same offense. Mr. Bossersman testified before the grand jury, and the indictments were found chiefly on his evidence.

The grand jury also indicted Mal-comb J. Levy for deserting his wife and children.

NEED JURY TRIAL TO CONDEMN LAND

Court of Appeals Supports Front Royal Landowners in Big Suit.

UNITED STATES LOSES

Opinion Reverses Verdict of Lynchburg Court and Orders New Trial.

Proceedings instituted in the assertion of the right of eminent domain for the condemnation of private property, according to an opinion by Judge Smith, handed down yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, are equivalent to a suit at common law, and the landholders cannot be deprived of the right to have their cause tried by a jury.

The question was the turning point in the case of Paul Beatty, Alma Jackson, Lucy E. Barbee and others against the United States of America, arising from the condemnation, for government purposes, of valuable tracts of land held by them in Front Royal Magisterial District, Warren County, Va.

The condemnation proceedings were carried on in the United States District Court at Lynchburg, which authorized the appointment of five disinterested freeholders to ascertain what was a compensation for the lands. The report made by these was unsatisfactory to the landowners, who moved the appointment of a jury for that purpose.
The court, after hearing testimony, resisted the motion, entering an order on August 9, 1912, that the report of five freeholders be affirmed. An appeal was taken to the circuit court, which yesterday reversed the verdict of the District Court at Lynchburg, ordering a new trial before a jury.

Right of Trial by Jury.

In his analysis of the case, Judge Smith holds that the whole matter rests upon whether or not the appellants were entitled to have the question of what damages should be paid them assessed for them for the compulsory taking of their lands, through the medium of a jury.

The proceedings under consideration were conducted by the United States district attorney in conformity with an act of Congress of August 1, 1888, which provides that the practice in condemnation proceedings in the Federal courts shall conform to that followed in the courts of the State, in which the action is brought. By statutory practice in Virginia, in trial of the question of damages in condemnation proceedings is not required to be by jury.

Notwithstanding these well-established practices, according to Judge Smith, the point at issue is the constitutional right of trial by jury in such cases. If the Constitution guarantees such a right it cannot be done away with or changed by any statutory provision.

Quoted Constitution.

To this point is quoted the Constitution of the United States, which, in the seventh amendment, provides that the right to a trial by jury shall be preserved. In suits at common law where the value exceeds $20. In the case before the court, the value of the lands was estimated at more than $50,000.

The fifth amendment to the Constitution prohibits the taking of private property for public uses without just compensation. These two amendments, in the opinion of the Court of Appeals, taken in conjunction with the opinion of a Federal judge in another case to the effect that "the right of eminent domain always was a right at common law," clearly indicate the right of the appellants to the jury trial, which was denied them by the lower court.

Judge Smith quotes in support of this position from Article XLVI of Magna Charta, which declares that no freeman shall be dispossessed or divested of his freehold or of his liberties or free customs except by the judgment of his peers.

Reverses Lower Court.

In reversing the verdict of the District Court at Lynchburg and remanding the case for retrial by jury, the appellate court says:
"It would seem a startling proposition in the first instance to say that although the Constitution of the United States forbids the United States laying a fine of a few dollars on a defendant without a trial by jury, and although it forbids the United States confining him for an offense committed without the verdict of a jury, and although the Constitution in a common law case prevents the recovery by one individual from another or by the United States from any citizen of the United States of even a comparatively small amount of money without the verdict of a jury, yet that in a proceeding for condemnation for public purposes property of the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars may be taken without the verdict of a jury."

Child Fatally Burned.

set fire to his clothes while playing.
When mother was away at a neighbor's home, Dr. A. R. Graywell was called, but too late. The child died.

the Many Valuable Prizes in $20,000 Contest.

What the Wise Man Says: 'Make Good'

Cut out "if," "could," and "should." Come now, strike your gait;
And start in to saw wood. It isn't too late.
You can still have the best Drop that fool talk of "luck."
Things in life like the rest Get a grip on your pluck;
Of those who've achieved There are prizes to win;
Just because they believed It's a shame and a sin In themselves. You're deceived To be passed by the rest.
If you think Fortune comes You're one of the best With a rattle of drums, In THE TIMES-DISPATCH Contest.
And a fanfare of state Show what you are—
To serve YOURS on a plate. Win a Kline car.
That isn't the way. Make people say That she visits to-day. What a hustler you are.
Plunge into the fight. Jump in to-day.
Hit to left and right. Shout hooray!
Don't let up with your striking "Me for the best Till makes meet your liking. In the great contest."
To look at a quitter. If others are blowing Fate scowls when she sees All showing A grownup on his knees. And they've done.
Why the freckle-backed toads Don't care a fig, Have the sense to keep jumping Get out and dig.
And here you stand frumping. Now's the time to begin.
Never stop till you WIN.

DON'T HESITATE ANY LONGER.

Have you been hesitating about entering The Times-Dispatch's great $20,000 subscription contest? Probably just at first you could not quite make up your mind to do so. Little difficulties occurred to you. By degrees they seemed small and trifling compared with the wonderful prizes you could win.

By this time, perhaps, you are afraid that some one who entered before you has gained a lead which it would be difficult to overcome.

Could anything be more opportune for such a case as yours than the big rate of votes now on, and lasting until March 22? Now, while a new yearly subscription to the Daily and Sunday Times-Dispatch will count 2,000 votes in your favor, you will find it more than possible to overtake the most industrious candidate so far.

LOOK AT THE PRIZE LIST.

When you look at that prize list does not a spark of genuine enthusiasm kindle within you? Naturally, you would prefer to win the $2,085 Kline touring car, although for ladies who like to look their very best as they go on their shopping or calling tours, the Baker electric might be considered preferable.

While it is well to enter with the full assurance that your chance of winning the very best is fully as good as any one's, you must not make the mistake of overlooking the great value of the other prizes.

Many enter a contest, but few stick to it with sufficient zeal to alarm an earnest rival. You can note, as the contest progresses, that there are a number who, having run the race swiftly for a short time, lose their breath before they are anywhere near the end.

As they begin to lag it is your opportunity to catch up, pass them and improve your standing. These opportunities will occur so often that you will be pushed automatically much nearer the head of the list. The remaining places you must capture by your own effort.

SEND IN YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

In a few days The Times-Dispatch will begin to publish the pictures of active candidates. You will do the management a favor by sending or bringing in your photograph for this purpose.

MAKE YOUR PREPARATIONS NOW.

You may just as well start now to make your preparations for winning. An early start will give you the advantage of a day, two days, a week, as the case may be.

At the close of the contest you are going to find every minute valuable. While there are still plenty of minutes to use, it would be best for you to make use of them. At this time there are not only more days ahead of you than there will ever be again, but each day can be made of more value than later on in the contest.

At present the big rate of votes is on and will last until March 22.
If you can secure six, or a dozen, or sixteen subscriptions in a day, today's work will net you a greater profit now, while the rate of votes is highest.

Do not deceive yourself with the idea that you will be given a little more time at the close. It is not aimed to favor those who have been dilatory. It would not be fair to urge the active workers to haste, and then give the procrastinators the same chances that they would have had if they had been prompt.

SUBSCRIBERS EASILY GAINED.

It is no difficult matter to secure subscriptions to The Times-Dispatch.
The paper has a host of friends whom you will have no trouble in inducing to renew their subscription. Every one who reads The Times-Dispatch speaks of it so highly that you will find those who do not already take it are quite prepared to do so. They need only the incentive which your request will give them to make them regular readers and fast friends of The Times-Dispatch.

NAMES ON FIRST COUPONS.

Some candidates take a great deal of unnecessary time and trouble by writing out their names and addresses on every slip of a package of coupon votes. If you will write the name and address clearly on the first two or three of a package and secure them together there is no chance of their not being all counted for you. As the time you devote to the contest is precious you should not waste it in this way. Better use the time spent in writing your name one hundred times in interviewing a prospective subscriber.

Put on your hat now and go out after that man who ought to do you a favor. Show him where he can get even with you by writing his name down for a year.
